News & Updates

UCAT Replacing UMAT for Medicine Students

Important Update: Students interested in studying Medicine, Dentistry and some other Clinical Science courses at a member university of the UMAT Consortium, will now need to sit the UCAT (University Clinical Aptitude Test) as part of their admissions process instead of the UMAT (Undergraduate Medical and Health Sciences Admission Test).

UCAT has now replaced UMAT for 2019 applications university entry in 2020.

However, for those students who have already sat the UMAT in July this year, nothing has changed regarding your application for the 2019 medical entry courses.

To read more on the test visit:

Become a 'Vet for a Day'

You can work at the RSPCA for a day and discover just what's involved behind the scenes when working in animal welfare.

You can gain some insight into a day in the life of an animal attendant, vet, vet nurse or an inspector. You can participate in 'Vet for a Day' in January.

The workshop is being held in January at the RSPCA Education Centre in Burwood East from 9.30am until 3.00pm and the cost per workshop is $120.00 (BYO snack and lunch).

Career Focus - Disability Support Worker

According to the Australian Government's Department of Jobs and Small Business, Aged and Disabled Carers will see an increase of 39.3% in job opportunities within the next 5 years. 'Disability Support Workers' can also be known as an; Aged Carer, Developmental Care Worker, Disabled Carer, Home Support Worker, Intellectual Disability Services, Nursing Assistant (Disability Support) and Special Care Worker.

Disability support workers provide care, supervision and support for people with disabilities in the home, residential establishments, clinics and hospitals. They also work with other health professionals to maximise the individual's physical and mental wellbeing. They provide companionship and emotional support, and when possible, promote independence and community participation.

Disability support workers:

- Assist people with self-medication
- Implement care programs for those in residential establishments.
- Provide in-home support with health issues and daily living tasks such as washing, dressing, eating, transport and budgeting.
- Assist with the delivery of activities to enhance the physical, social, emotional and intellectual development of those in care.
- Ensure that those in their care are washed, dressed, fed and ready for educational and recreational activities.
- Assist those in their care during domestic activities such as eating meals and showering.
- Provide companionship and support during daily activities.
- Cook and serve meals, clean premises, wash, iron and perform other household tasks.
- Organise refuge accommodation.
- Work with a team of health professionals, family, friends and carers to implement a program of support.

- Can work evenings, weekends and public holidays and may also be required to live or stay on the premises.

To work in this field, it is important to be patient, flexible and understanding. You will need to be supportive, caring and have a commitment to the rights of people with disabilities to live dignified lives. It is also important to be able to accept responsibility, have good communication skills, be able to work as part of a team and capable of meeting the physical demands of the job.

To become a Disability Support Worker, you usually have to complete a Certificate IV in Disability which is the entry level qualification for working with people with disabilities. Further studies for disability work include the Diploma of Community Services work.

The Victorian Government have included a range of Certificates in Disability, Ageing Support, Individual Support or Community Services as part of their 2019 Free TAFE initiative. For further information on these courses available please visit:
